

THE NEWSLETTER OF PINE STREET BAPTIST CHURCH

As we prepare to enter the Season of Lent, one of the things that will undoubtedly be asked of us at some point is, “What are you giving up for Lent?” During Lent, many Christians commit to fasting, as well as giving up certain luxuries in order to replicate the sacrifice of Jesus Christ's journey into the desert for 40 days. People will give up everything from chocolate to the internet during the season of Lent. Indeed, this is a good way to observe Lent.

Another question we might ask ourselves is “What will I take up for Lent?” As we spend this season reflecting on our Lord's life, ministry, passion and suffering, we witness the things that Jesus took with him as he journey toward the cross. Jesus carried with him compassion, generosity, grace, forgiveness, and mercy. And along the way he shared these with those he encountered. A tax collector named Zacchaeus was given friendship. A blind man was given sight. An adulteress was given forgiveness. A grieving mother was given a son who had died yet Jesus restored to life.

During the season of Lent we are called to take up the life of Jesus and make it a reality in our own lives. Regardless of how we honor Lent in our lives, we must model our living after Jesus who came to serve rather than to be served. John Chrysostom, Archbishop of Constantinople, was an important Early Church Father. He is known for his preaching and public speaking, and his ascetic sensibilities. In writing about Lent, Chrysostom stated:

“No act of virtue can be great if it is not followed by advantage for others. So, no matter how much time you spend fasting, no matter how much you sleep on a hard floor and eat ashes and sigh continually, if you do no good to others, you do nothing great.”

Whatever we may give up for Lent, it means little if we do not take up Jesus' love and share it with our neighbor. By loving others we bear witness to the one who has loved us unconditionally and has taken us to himself. During this season of Lent may we take up Christ's love and make it known to all those we meet along the way on our own journey.
